May 1.—Governor Orman appointed Charles Frabert of Montezuma, county water commissioner for that district.

Two large incorporations were filed today with the secretary of state's office today. The first was the Gold Cliff G. M. Co., with a capitalization of $100,000, and the second was the Colorado Springs G. M. Co., with a capitalization of $100,000. The incorporators of the former company are William C. J. H. McKee and J. A. Sherman, while the incorporators of the latter company are J. M. Allen, E. C. Good and John K. Williams.

J. A. Curnham through his attorneys filed with the supreme court his appeal of the suit in which he was defeated by the state against him for $200,000 for securing a purchase of the Gold Cliff mine. Mr. Curnham recently won a judgment for $200,000, which he claimed was his commission for finding a buyer for the mine. The mine was sold out of his grip. Today's brief is remarkable for the satire contained in the opening paragraph.

The heavy wind storm which was over Denver and vicinity last night seems to have prevailed throughout the state, with considerable damage done all through the state, especially in the north. In Denver the wind reached the highest velocity recorded in this city. Several small buildings were unroofed and a number of small fires started, but the department was able to keep all of them under control.

John H. Kingsbury, of 2627 Twenty-ninth avenue this morning shot his daughter Elsie, aged 8, and another daughter, Ethel, aged 18, while administering chloroform to her. She then took some laudanum and a large dose of carbolic acid, lying down and placed a bottle of chloroform to her nostrils so that she could inhale the deadly odor. She died after a short time afterwards. Another daughter and a neighbor, who was a physician, was summoned, but he died during the afternoon. The children were both dead when he arrived. Insanity caused from despondency is the only reason that can be given for the terrible act. Her husband, John Kingsbury, is the foreman of the Superior Hand Laundry in this city.

Denver, May 2.—The coroner's jury which has for the past 10 days been conducting an inquest over the death of Albert Garbin, who was a member of the 13th general assembly, tonight returned a verdict to the effect that death was due to arsenical poisoning administered by some one unknown to the jury. Later in the evening, Chief Armstrong and District Attorney Lindquist decided that the evidence which had been introduced in the inquest was of sufficient character to warrant a charge of some one against Garbin. So Chief Armstrong filed an information against her with the district attorney, charging her with the murder of her husband. She was held in the matron's quarters at the city jail. It is not known when her preliminary trial will be held.

Denver, May 6.—The Mesa County Cattle Growers Protective association recently adopted the following set of resolutions and a copy of them was sent to the secretary of the State Humane society:

"Whereas, It has become the custom of the directors, or board of managers, in celebrating special holidays such as Peach day, Strawberry day, etc., to hold county fairs throughout Colorado to advertise as a leading feature of the program, roping contests for high prizes offered for the quickest time made in roping, throwing and tying down steers," then follows a long list of whereases reciting the suffering animals undergo at such contests, and the resolutions end as follows:

"Resolved, That we, the Mesa County Cattle Growers Protective association, do most heartily condemn these roping contests, and the promiscuous roping of cattle on the open range, and we earnestly request the Colorado Humane society to do all in its power to stop these inhuman proceedings and assuring it of our hearty co-operation and support in its efforts to abolish this evil."

Cripple Creek, May 3.—The Democratic machine, after everything before it today in the school election in district No. 1, and Clint Tillery, the Democratic candidate, was elected by a large majority. From the board of county commissioners to the official dog catcher of Mound City, the city and county officers, all Democrats, worked from morning till night for Tillery. If it had been a county election, the Democratic machine would not have been more thoroughly organized for business. A good sized fund had been collected for the day, every officeholder being compelled to donate in order to pay for the many carriages. On the other hand, the Republicans took no active part in the contest, but those who voted, cast their ballot for Dr. Frank Hasenpflug, being compelled to donate in order to pay for the many carriages. During the campaign he made speeches in his bill of expenses, the chairman of the committee on the expenses of the campaign called Hanna called him to the floor and said, "I reckon you are a little bit of a pesky toad," but did not say so. He replied, "but did you not say that pesky toad?" and then he said, "no answer but put it in the account."—(Leslie's Weekly.)

PRESENT STATUS OF THE CAPE TO CAIRO RAILROAD

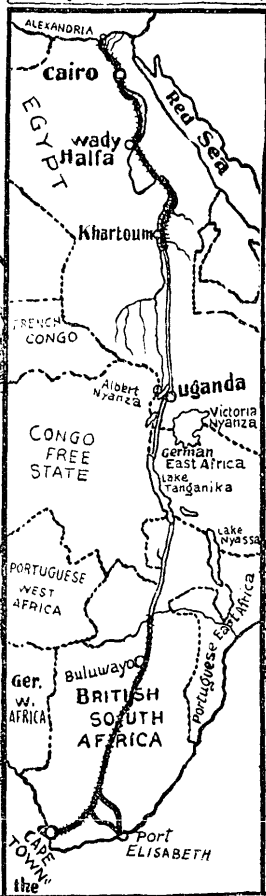

THE Alexanders of geography and exploration are lamenting the fact that Africa, the only continent remaining to them, now presents little to be investigated. The headwaters of the Nile and the Kongo have been surveyed, the equatorial lakes have been circumnavigated and the Mountains of the Moon have been explored. Less than fifty years have passed since Dr. Livingstone made his wonderful journey into Africa beyond the Zambesi river, but today it is crossed by telegraph lines, and a well equipped railway is already uncoiling its steel tentacles toward its southern bank.

Fifty years ago the only real possession of England in Africa was at the extreme southern end of the continent; at present the British empire claims away over a strip of territory extending from Cape Colony to the Sudan and through Egypt. And it is mainly due to the indomitable energy and foresight of one man, the late Cecil Rhodes, that Great Britain's holdings in South and central Africa have been so enormously increased within the last few years. Africa was practically partitioned among the powers at the Berlin international conference of 1884, and the scramble for territory began the very next year. Exploration and apportionment went on at a rapid rate of progress until today there remains mighty little of African territory that has not been appropriated. The first explorers of the dark continent after the Spanish had a hold on Algeria dating from a period some seventy years back, but she wanted more and so annexed Sahara and Algeria. Belgium's present king fathered the Kongo Free State project; Germany took territory on the east coast and on the west, but Great Britain came out ahead of them all.

When the smoke cleared away, it was found that John Bull had grabbed not only the largest portions, but the richest. To quote the language of an eminent Briton: "All Africa that is comfortably habitable by white men is under the British flag or under British protection. And, again, everything that pays dividends lies within the

and Portuguese navigators had shown the way thither were the slave stealers and traders, followed by the missionaries, and these, in turn, by commercial men, settlers and colonizers. In the eighteenth century, some one has said, "the civilized world [rather civilized Europe] was engaged in stealing Africa from Africa."

Spain and Portugal had owned territory in Africa for centuries. From its north coast Spain was invaded by Mohammedans in the eighth century, following after the armies of Hannibal and Hannibal in an early period of its civilization, yet until near the latter half of the nineteenth century Africa remained a land of mystery and darkness. After the scramble was under way, however, the great powers lost no time in acquiring as much of Africa as greed and policy could control. France sphere peered out for John Bull by his adventuresome sons. Wherever in Africa you find land in which white-skinned children can be reared you will find that it lies within the British zone; and wherever there is in Africa any paying property that also will be found within

These words were written before the first war, and how applicable they are to the status of British holdings in Africa today no one needs to be told. Neither is it necessary to more than mention that the man who more than any other made history, and recent history, take its subjugation he made it himself, and then turned it over to the crown. He accomplished the conquest of Mashonaland and Matabeleland at an initial expense of less than a million dollars, and when Lobengula brought his "impis" against his handful of Europeans and native troops Rhodes repulsed them all. Lobengula hurled 12,000 of his best fighters against the British "laager" containing less than 2,000 all told, and they were dashed to pieces, with a loss to the British of less than 100 men.

Rhodes captured Lobengula's capital, Bulawayo, and awoke one morning to find that he held also Matabeleland in his grasp. The result of Rhodes' sagacity and dash was the acquisition of the region now known as Rhodesia, northern and southern, all of 750,000 square miles in area. That conquest was virtually achieved in 1893, and in the month of November, 1897, the former capital of barbaric Lobengula was reached by the railroad running northward from Cape Town, forming the first link in the long chain that is destined to connect the southern tip of Africa with the land of the Pharaohs.

Bulawayo is 1,350 miles from Cape Town, and the trip is now made in three and one-half days by railway trains with every modern equipment. Thus the work begun by Livingstone nearly fifty years ago was completed by the diamond king of South Africa acting on his own initiative and with scant aid from the imperial government. Rhodes is credited with saying: "You can't run a fort on coffee planting [meaning that an agricultural colony will not support troops], but gold or diamonds can do it." And he proved it, for the land he took for the British is extremely rich in gold and has not only supported British troops and government, but has furnished the sinews of war for the scheme that, next to territorial conquest, lay nearest to Rhodes' heart—his Cape to Cairo railway.

Of the 5,000 miles necessary to make the desired connection between Cape Town and Cairo more than one-half have been covered already. Work is being vigorously pushed northward from Bulawayo to the Zambesi, whence it will be continued to Lake Tanganyika, throughout the length of which steamers will run to connect with the line projected, still northward toward the White Nile. Southward from Alexandria and Cairo a railroad now exists as far as Khartoum, that city in which Gordon met his untimely death. The gap at present between the two termini is not much over 2,000 miles. The richest country in the world lies along the railroad as built and projected. It abounds in gold and diamonds, in palm products and rubber, copper, iron, coal—in fact, all kinds of valuable mineral and agricultural resources.

There are now more than 12,500 miles of railroad in Africa, more than 7,500 of which are in British territory. The Cape to Cairo gauge (3 feet 6 inches) is the standard on all of them and also on the various "feeder" lines, such as the line completed last December from Mombasa on the coast to Uganda, heart of the Victoria Nyanza region. The brain that conceived this vast scheme is now forever stilled, but the mighty forces that set it in motion are yet at work, and a few years will witness the consummation of the most stupendous undertaking of its kind the world has ever known.

PROFESSOR DAVID JAYNE HILL, WHO HAS BEEN SUGGESTED AS THE EMBASSADOR TO GERMANY.

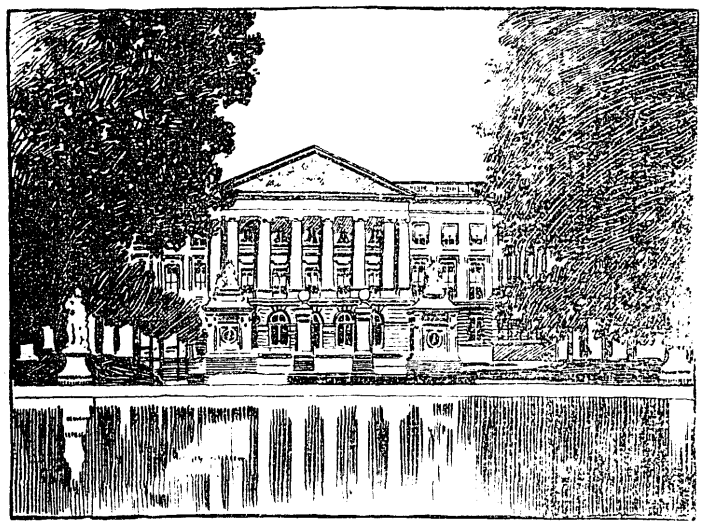

A name prominently mentioned in connection with the German embassy, and the retirement of Ambassador White, is that of Professor David Jayne Hill, the eminent first assistant secretary of state. It is now nearly three years and a half since Professor Hill was appointed by President McKinley to the position he now holds as Secretary of State Hill's "right hand man." That he has filled it with satisfaction to diplomats both in this country and abroad is admitted.

At the time he received his present appointment Professor Hill was in Europe, whither he had gone for the purpose of studying international law. Born at Philadelphia, N. J., June 19, 1856, he graduated from Bucknell university, Pennsylvania, in 1874, studied in Paris and Berlin, became president of his alma mater in 1879 and of Rochester university in 1888, resigning in order to visit Europe. It is said that Professor Hill is one of the world's greatest experts in international jurisprudence, on which subject he not only lectured for several years prior to taking governmental office, but has written much. As an author he began to write twenty-five years ago, producing a "Life of Washington Irving" in 1877, followed by a "Life of W. C. Bryant," "Elements and Science of Rhetoric," "Elements of Psychology," "Principles and Philosophy of Socialism," "Genetic Philosophy," "International Justice," "A Primer of Finance" and many political pamphlets.

As a diplomatist of extensive requirements, a linguist and a political economist Professor Hill has acceptably filled the place he holds by the display of talents which constitute a guarantee of still greater performance whenever qualities of the first order shall be in demand.

That Professor Hill possesses social qualities also was evidenced during the tour of Prince Henry of Prussia in this country, when he accompanied him as the official representative of our government. His home in Washington, presided over by his talented wife, is a rallying place for diplomats, scientists, artists and local literati.

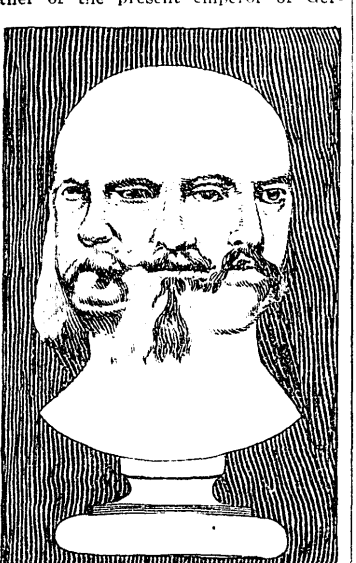

CHAMBER OF REPRESENTATIVES, BRUSSELS, BELGIUM.

Among the public buildings of Belgium's capital, a city celebrated for the number and architectural beauty of its ancient palaces, the one most conspicuous in the public eye at the present time undoubtedly is that shown in the illustration, the chamber of representatives, where the recent revision of the Belgian constitution in favor of a more popular suffrage was reported. The rioting that preceded this action, as well as those that occurred subsequently, are events well known. Great excitement followed the announcement of the rejected revision, the socialists being especially active, though their leaders counseled moderation and an appeal to the king.

THREE FACES, FOUR EYES.

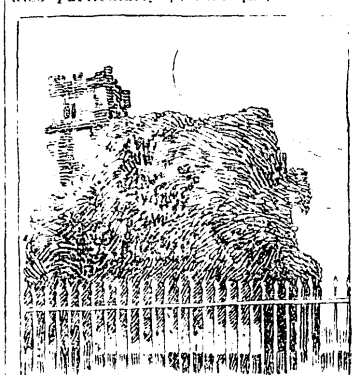

A French sculptor has produced a mask with three faces and only four eyes. It presents three likenesses said to resemble Kaiser William, grandfather of the present emperor of Germany: Napoleon III., and Bismarck at the time of the Franco-German war. To see each likeness at its best it is only necessary to cover in turn all the pictures except the one under inspection.

SMALLEST CHURCH IN THE WORLD.

The smallest stone church in the world is claimed by the village of Up-patham, in Yorkshire, England. It is also particularly picturesque, with its ivy covered, half ruined tower. Its actual dimensions are 12 feet 9 inches by 12 feet 1 inch, and it is 900 years old. A quaint inscription in the steeple reads, "William Crow, churchwarden, bulded chapel, 1664." Some of the stones in the adjacent churchyard date back to 1550.

A single brewery in Munich uses 118 railway freight cars of its own, besides 28 belonging to the state. Other breweries have 143, 92, 52, 50, 100, 86, etc.

MARY JOHNSTON, AUTHOR OF THREE FAMOUS BOOKS.

As to the personality of Miss Mary Johnston, the talented author of three famous books—"Prisoners of Hope" (1898), "To Have and to Hold" (1900) and "Audrey" (1901)—which have already sold up into the hundreds of thousands, it is all that the most exacting hero, or rather heroine, lover could desire. Born of a fine old colonial family in Buchanan, Botetourt county, Va., Nov. 21, 1870, she has gained her laurels early. Like many another author who has won the world's applause, Miss Johnston is a product of home education and, owing to continued ill health, never was for any length of time at school or seminary. Instead she browsed in her father's library and there acquired a liking for poetry and history, particularly for Shakespeare and the narratives of old colonial times. Her summers she spent on the seashore or in the country, and thus her work is altogether the outgrowth of environment, shaped by circumstances. An omnivorous reader, Miss Johnston readily assimilated the best of what she read without dissipating time in acquiring material that would never be of use to the novelist. In short, her mental digestion was perfect, and she became great by the intellectual pabulum she absorbed. She is of medium height, slender, yet stately, with a high broad face, large brown eyes and wavy brown hair. Her home is at Birmingham, Ala., and for years she has been her father's housekeeper and traveling companion.

TOMB OF A NIGERIAN CHIEF.

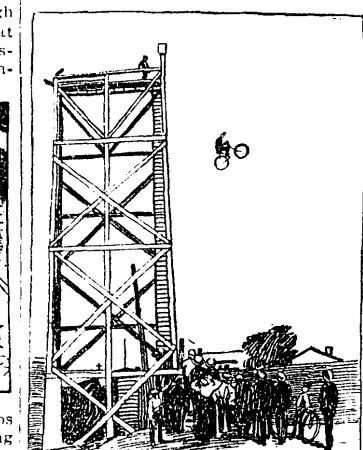

The British punitive expedition into southeastern Nigeria which completely broke the power of the Aro negroes and subjugated several other native tribes unearthed many strange things in that far-off corner of the globe. Although the Aros are cannibals, they have great respect for their rulers and their ancestors, and the most common objects encountered seem to have been the tombs of the latter. When a chief man among the Aros expires, his tribesmen erect a large hut with high, thatched sides and back, which is covered in front with gaudy colored cloth. Inside this hut is the grave, and outside is placed an idol as well as the effigies of inferior deities, while the front of the building is adorned with earthen pots, tin bottles and painted sticks.

A WONDERFUL ONE LEGGED CYCLIST.

One of the wonders of the bicycle world at present is the original of this illustration, who is now exhibiting in the United States. He jumps from the roof of a building into a water tank below, a distance of ninety feet, without turning over in midair and without breaking any bones or bicycles. The most wonderful thing about it is that the man has but one leg.

WHAT THE FRENCH "RESCUE DOGS" DID TO A DUMMY.

The French police were very enthusiastic a short time ago over their Newfoundland "rescue" dogs, and practiced much of what they would do in saving from drowning persons who had fallen into the Seine. It is generally supposed that after one had fallen into that filthy river he would feel too disgusted to desire to be rescued. But no matter. Fortunately Johnny Crapaud's polished result shown in the illustration. The dogs dashed in all right, seized got it ashore they fell to and began to tear it in fragments. Now the Parisian police are wondering what the dogs would do with a human being under like circumstances, but are afraid to make the experiment.

TILLMAN DEFENDS SOUTHERN CRIMES

Washington, May 7.—Discussion on the Tillman bill in the senate today. Mr. Tillman, of South Carolina, referring to the alleged cruelties of American soldiers in the Philippines, cruelties which he deeply deplored, told of some of the cruelties which had occurred on both sides during the civil war. In this connection, he suggested that senators from South Carolina and Mississippi, where there is less popular liberty than in any other states, were shouting loudest for constitutional liberty in the Philippines.

These remarks drew a sensational reply from Mr. Tillman of South Carolina, who declared that it was no longer possible to snore away the responsibility for the infamies committed by the Americans in the Philippines. He said that if it had been known in the south that the reins of government were to be given to the negroes, the civil war would have been prolonged indefinitely.

He insisted that in order to maintain their self-respect the white people of the south had been obliged to subdue the negro by whatever means they could, using the shotgun as one of the means. He frankly described how the negroes had been defeated at the polls, admitting that the whites had gotten such majorities as were necessary.

"When we get ready to put a negro's face in the sand," he shouted, "we put his body there, too." He declared that the people of the south never would submit to negro domination and he hoped Republican senators would turn from their game of neutrality in the Philippines and assist the south to rid itself of the threat of negro domination.

While Mr. Tillman was speaking many of the Democratic senators left the chamber, his audience on the floor being largely on the Republican side.

Mr. Burton, of Kansas, vigorously arraigned Mr. Tillman for his utterances. He asserted that the senator who could defend slavery and government by the shotgun could not be expected to think well of senators who were trying to carry good government to the Philippines. He was astonished that a senator in one breath should make an appeal for unsullied government in the Philippines and in the next should boast of crimes almost unparalleled in history.

Mr. Burton sharply arraigned the minority members for their attitude in the Philippines question, declaring that they were supporting the Filipino insurgents while the majority senators were standing for the American government and army.

It was said, the evident purpose of Mr. Tillman's speech is to give color to the statement made heretofore that a Republican administration

BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE DROWNED NEAR TOLEDO

Toledo, Ohio, May 7.—Seven young people, members of a Sunday school class of the First Baptist church, were drowned in the Maumee river just below the city tonight at 10 o'clock, as the result of the naphtha launch Frolic, in which they were taking a ride, being run down by the tug Arthur Woods, of the Great Lakes Towing company's fleet.

The launch is owned by Joseph Hopburn, of this city, who invited 11 young people to take an evening ride with him. They started out on a trip to Lake Erie early in the evening and were returning when the accident happened.

Mr. Hopburn, Miss Clara Marks, Arthur Marks and Miss Grace Love are the only survivors.

Mr. Hopburn states that he saw the lights of the approaching tug and thinking it was bound straight down the river, turned to the east. When nearly abreast the launch, the tug suddenly turned to the east in order to make the dock at Froville, and before the launch could get out of the way it was struck by the tug and turned over and sunk about 100 feet from the dock.

Mr. Hopburn caught hold of the side of the tug and Miss Love grasped his leg, and both were pulled on board the tug. The Marks girl was picked up from a cushion on which she floated. Arthur Marks was also fortunate enough to grab a piece of wreckage and was picked up by those on the tug. The other seven members of the party were drowned and the river is now being dragged for their bodies. The tug brought the rescued

WOMEN PLEDGED AID TO IRRIGATION

By Associated Press.
Los Angeles, Calif., May 7.—By the passage of a resolution endorsing the national irrigation movement, the General Federation of Women's clubs has formally undertaken support of the irrigation schemes for the benefit of the Colorado and California delegations the following resolution was unanimously adopted by the biennial convention:

"Indorsing the resolution of President Roosevelt in his recent message to congress that 'successful homelands are but another name for the upbuilding of the nation,' and believing also with the secretary of the interior that there is no question now before the people of the United States of greater importance than the conservation of the water supply and the reclamation of the arid lands of the west and their settlement by men who will actually build homes and create communities.

"Be it resolved, by the General Federation of Women's clubs in session at Los Angeles, Calif., this day of May, 1902, that the construction of reservoirs and irrigation works wherever necessary for the reclamation and settlement of the great public domain to the end that this now great work of the nation may be carried on by actual settlers only and become the homes of millions of prosperous and contented American citizens."

MRS. DENNISON FOR THE PRESIDENCY

By Associated Press.
Los Angeles, Calif., May 7.—The nominating committee of the National Federation of Women's Clubs has completed the list of officers, which is to be voted upon by the federation tomorrow. The ticket follows:

President, Mrs. D. E. Denton of New York; first vice president, Mrs. Robert Burdette of California; second vice president, Mrs. Emma Fox of Michigan; recording secretary, Mrs. William G. Coad of South Dakota; corresponding secretary, Miss Louise Rappenhelm of South Carolina; treasurer, Mrs. Emma Van Vechten of Iowa; auditor, Mrs. Noyes of Wisconsin.

The nominations made for the board of directors contain several old members and these new ones: Mrs. W. A. Nelden, of Utah; Mrs. J. C. Carroll, of Texas; Mrs. Humphreys, of Kansas.

There continues to be much Decker talk tonight, but it is stated on good authority that the Colorado woman will not accept a nomination for the presidency from the floor. There is also talk of a second ticket but it is generally believed the official ticket will in the main be accepted by the convention.

As tomorrow is the last day of the convention, the business session in the morning aside from the election of officers promises to be otherwise lively. The chair, which caused such a mix-up at a previous session, is to be the other consideration. The report of the Louisiana Purchase committee is also to be presented for consideration. Mrs. Philip Moore of St. Louis heads a committee which for six months has worked on a plan for a $200,000 memorial erected by club women at the St. Louis exposition.

WASHINGTON TOPICS OF WESTERN INTEREST

Special to The Gazette.
Washington, D. C., May 7.—Representative Bell today applied to the postoffice department for a rural free delivery route extending from Montrose to the adjoining farming community. An order will be sent to investigate and report upon the feasibility of the route.

Mr. Bell presented to the house today a petition of citizens of Colorado against leasing public lands.

The house agreed today to the conference report upon the bill appropriating $12,500 to pay Spotswood and McClellan for transportation to and from Fort Carson and Fairplay and Leadville in 1873.

The house also agreed to the conference report on the Indian appropriation bill retaining the provisions for opening to settlement Uintah Indian reservation, appropriating $150,000 for use by the secretary of the interior in purchasing water rights for Southern Pacific and granting rights of way for irrigating canals across Southern Utah allotted lands.

A favorable report was made by the subcommittee on public lands on the Lacey bill authorizing the secretary of the interior to permit citizens of one state to cut and use timber from forest reserves in an adjoining state.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Walsh gave a dinner this evening in honor of the French ambassador and Mrs. Cambon. Following the dinner there was a musical attended by many guests.

THE SUGAR HEARING

By Associated Press.
Washington, May 7.—Manuel Rionda, a sugar broker, testified before the senate committee on relations with Cuba today. He said he bought more sugar for the independent refiners than for the Cuban government, and that the price of sugar in February and March there was a reduction on Cuban sugars below the Hamburg price because the supply was greater than the demand. The Cuban seller would receive the benefit of a reduction of duty by the United States, he said. If no reduction was made there might be a panic in Cuba, as those who might have made advances on sugar would call in their loans.

George E. Bryson, commissioner of deeds of Havana, testified that many large and small plantations are owned by Americans. As a rule the Spaniards control the sugar production, but Bryson also said that the peons or colonos who grow the sugar on the plantations would not derive any benefit from an increase in the price of sugar.

Mr. Bryson was questioned by the American Coffee company, was questioned by Senator Teller concerning a pamphlet entitled "Facts About Cuba," which the witness said he had compiled. The pamphlet matter was a subject of dispute, the number of newspapers advocating a reduction of the duty on sugar. There had been, he said, about 350,000 of these pamphlets printed at a cost of $1,100. He had consulted Mr. Bryan about getting it up, the object being to counteract the effect of charges against the sugar trust. He said that he had had many of these articles reprinted in patent inside papers, paying for their publication, but that he had never had them printed in other papers.

A COVERT SUGGESTION TO MINORITY SENATORS

By Associated Press.
Washington, May 7.—Secretary Root has made the following response to the house resolution calling for copies of all orders sent to General Smith and other officers relative to the campaign in Samar:

No orders or instructions have been forwarded to the commanding military officer in the Philippines relative to the conduct of military operations on the island of Samar, or relating to the campaign of General Jacob H. Smith, in said island, except the instructions for the government of the army of the United States in the field, approved and promulgated by Abraham Lincoln in General Order No. 100, of 1863, a copy of which is annexed hereto and which have been followed and conformed to by all orders made in the Philippines in respect of that campaign so far as the same have been received at the war department.

"It has not been deemed wise or practicable to interfere from Washington with the conduct of military operations on the other side of the world under conditions and exigencies which the competent and faithful officers commanding that division of the Philippine army necessarily understand far better than is possible for the war department."

FOR REPOSE OF THE SOUL OF ARCHBISHOP CORRIGAN

By Associated Press.
New York, May 7.—Masses for the repose of the soul of Archbishop Corrigan were said today at St. Patrick's cathedral and were attended by the Rev. Father Lavelle, rector of the cathedral, and the Rev. Father Daly. At 7 o'clock, the Rev. George W. Corrigan, a brother of the dead archbishop, and Bishop McQuig of Rochester officiated, and at 8 o'clock the Rt. Rev. Ignatius Sanchez de Oca, bishop of San Luis Potosi, and the Rev. Father McAleer of the cathedral were the celebrants.

Later in the morning the body of the archbishop was carried into the cathedral and placed at the end of the center aisle and just in front of the altar. The head was placed toward the altar and was elevated, so that the mourners could see the face of the dead prelate when half way down the center aisle. At the time there were thousands of persons grouped about the cathedral waiting for the funeral, which would be opened so they might have an opportunity to pay last tribute of respect to the archbishop.

The body was attired in the funeral robes. These consisted of a purple silk cassock, purple silk sash, lace rochet, then anice, lace alb, cincture, stole, maniple, purple silk tunic, purple silk dalmatic, purple silk casuale, purple sandals and stockings and white damask miter. There also was the pictorial cross, the pallium, the

PRESENTATION POSTPONED.

By Associated Press.
Baltimore, May 7.—Agreeable to the wishes of Rear Admiral W. S. Schley, the presentation of the silver service made from coins taken from the Spanish cruiser Cristobal Colon has been indefinitely postponed. Owing to the death of Admiral Sampson, Admiral Schley requested the committee having the matter in hand to abandon the social function which had been arranged for tonight at the residence of Theodore Marborg in this city. The service together with a letter of presentation from the donors of the magnificent gift, will be sent to Washington by express.

PREVENTED A VOTE.

By Associated Press.
Dublin, May 7.—The Nationalist members of the corporation of the city of Dublin have prevented that body considering the question of whether T. C. Harrington, lord mayor of Dublin, should receive the coronation of King Edward VII. Harrington was absent from the meeting of the corporation held today. The lord mayor announced that there was no quorum present while 40 Nationalist members were congregated outside the door. Amid derisive cries of "God help the king" from the crowded galleries, the meeting adjourned.

BANKERS UNION.

By Associated Press.
Omaha, May 7.—The first annual meeting of the supreme lodge of the Bankers' Union of the World began in this city today with 150 delegates present from Nebraska and outside states. At 8 o'clock tonight a reception was tendered at Metropolitan hall at which Mayor Halls delivered a welcome address. Several addresses followed, after which a committee on credentials was appointed of which R. Southworth of Denver was appointed.

TANK CAR CAUSED WRECK.

By Associated Press.
St. Joseph, Mo., May 7.—The breaking down of a tank car filled with oil caused a costly wreck on the Chicago Great Western at Talmage, 50 miles south of here, tonight. Conductor George Miller of St. Joseph, Mo., was killed. Several cars and a bridge were wrecked.

THE BEEF TRUST.

By Associated Press.
Chicago, May 7.—United States District Attorney S. N. Betha returned to Chicago today after his conference with Attorney-General Knox relative to the investigation of the so-called beef trust. It was announced that the bill for injunction against the big packers is being printed at Washington and that it will probably be filed here Friday. Special Attorney Day is expected to arrive with it. Indications are that the scope of the inquiry has been broadened materially and that a bill has been introduced which will ask not only for a dissolution of contracts entered into by and between packers, but that goods in transit be seized if it can be shown that collusive and thereby illegal relations.

NEW YORK FAILURES.

By Associated Press.
New York, May 7.—There were no developments today respecting three stock exchange firms which suspended on Monday after the severe break in the securities of the so-called Webb-Meyer syndicate. Assignees continued their examination of the books of Lockwood, Hurd & Co. and Henry Bros. & Co. Schedules of liabilities and assets may be filed before the end of the week, but probably not until next week. It was again said today that the resumption of business by these firms is contingent almost entirely upon the attitude of Dr. W. Seward Webb. Offenbach & More, who were the direct stock exchange representatives of Mr. Meyer up to the time of their suspension, made no statement other than that they had not assigned.

ST. LOUIS LIBRARY SITE.

By Associated Press.
St. Louis, May 7.—The St. Louis Exposition building was sold at public auction today for $280,000. Frederick W. Lehmann purchasing the property for the St. Louis Union Trust company. The sale was by the St. Louis Union Trust company, which is the owner of the building. The sale was by a mortgage of $150,000 on the property. They had never been able to collect on their bonds with the exception of $10,000.

The Exposition building, containing a museum and a seating capacity of 8,000 and an immense collection of books, is to be torn down to make way for a library building to cost half a million dollars. Carnegie recently promised St. Louis $1,000,000 with which to build a main library and ten branches.

TEXT OF GENERAL BELL'S ORDER FOR RETALIATION

Washington, May 7.—Secretary Root today submitted to the senate an order for retaliation against the Philippine insurgents. The order is a copy of an order issued by General Bell relative to reconcentration at Batangas, and of the orders issued by General Smith to Major Waller, and by the latter in his defense before the court martial. The secretary also was asked to state whether these orders were approved by General Chaffee by the war department when they were known to the department, and when countermanded.

In reply the secretary submits two orders by General Bell, dated December 1 and 3 last. In the first General Bell orders the reconcentration of the Philippine insurgents at Batangas, and in the second he orders the reconcentration of the Philippine insurgents at Batangas, and in the second he orders the reconcentration of the Philippine insurgents at Batangas.

"It is useless for me to make an attempt to show the necessity for the order adopted in the Third and Sixth brigades to put an end to the active resistance existing there. In such a way that all persons will agree that right action has been taken. It is impossible, of course, for me to do this. I will state, however, that personal contact with the people, knowledge of their methods and sentiments; a personal acquaintance with the terrain and what may be done by an enemy as by troops, are all essential to determine what should be done before countermanding has been done. It is also unnecessary that some other method be suggested and positive proof submitted that had it been followed, more success correspondingly would have followed its adoption. They would have been secured by the present course.

"I do not understand that the authority of the United States in these islands can be definitely disputed by armed resistance. It is the duty of the United States to that authority. On the other hand, I understand that all means which are justified by the laws of war are to be applied in such form as will meet and defeat the method of warfare adopted by the enemy. If desperate in the last case more desperate must be the attack to end it.

"Every care has been taken that people required to remain under military surveillance shall not unduly suffer for food, shelter or medical attention if needed."

Secretary Root says that there is no reason to doubt that the policy embodied in the above orders was at once the most effective and humane means of protecting either the lives of his subordinates or those of peaceful or friendly citizens, or the interests of his government against the repetition of barbarous and unprovoked attacks. We consequently find ourselves operating in a thoroughly occupied terrain against the entire population united in a hopeless struggle, and, continuing at or tolerating barbarous methods which almost reach the limit in outraging the laws and usages of legitimate warfare.

"The reckless expedients adopted by the enemy, especially the policy of incendiarism and assassination, leave to the brigade commander no choice but of protecting either the lives of his subordinates or those of peaceful or friendly citizens, or the interests of his government against the repetition of barbarous and unprovoked attacks. We consequently find ourselves operating in a thoroughly occupied terrain against the entire population united in a hopeless struggle, and, continuing at or tolerating barbarous methods which almost reach the limit in outraging the laws and usages of legitimate warfare."

The brigade commander, therefore, announces for the information of all concerned that whoever, prisoners or unarmed or otherwise, Americans or natives friendly to the United States government are murdered or assassinated for political reasons, and this fact once established, it is his purpose to execute, without delay, the law of retaliation. We consequently find ourselves operating in a thoroughly occupied terrain against the entire population united in a hopeless struggle, and, continuing at or tolerating barbarous methods which almost reach the limit in outraging the laws and usages of legitimate warfare."

HOPKINS FOR SENATOR

By Associated Press.
Springfield, Ill., May 7.—Unless all signs fail Congressman Hopkins will be endorsed for United States senator by the Republican state convention.

Senator Mason will not admit tonight that Hopkins has a majority of the delegates. He says, however, that he may be tomorrow to vote an endorsement. The senator gave out an authorized statement tonight, in which he says that if the convention endorses Hopkins it will mean an endorsement of the public opinion ticket in Cook county and probably the state ticket.

Fred Bussey will be nominated for state treasurer without opposition. Congressman Cannon will be temporary chairman of the convention.

SAMPSON'S FUNERAL

By Associated Press.
Washington, May 7.—According to the present arrangement the funeral ceremonies over the remains of the late Rear Admiral Sampson will take place at 10:30 Friday morning at the Church of the Covenant. The remains will be taken to Arlington for internment accompanied by a special military and naval escort. The naval regulations prescribe that the pall bearers for the funeral of an officer shall be as near the rank of the deceased as possible. The rank of Rear Admiral Sampson's funeral have not yet been announced.

Secretary Moody will issue a general order announcing Admiral Sampson's death to the naval service, and prescribing the salutes, half masting and other observances which will be carried out on board ship and at navy yards and stations all over the world. The order also will pay a tribute to the services rendered to the navy by Rear Admiral Sampson.

The pall bearers have not yet been selected. It is understood that as many as are available of the ship captains who were with the North Atlantic squadron in the West Indian campaign will serve. Rear Admirals Taylor and Higginson, and Captains Chadwick, Clark and Cook are among the officers mentioned in this connection.

Secretary Moody will invite the members of the cabinet to attend the funeral. It is probable that President Roosevelt, who was a warm friend of the admiral, will be present.

Secretary Moody also will invite the members of congress and the justices of the supreme court to attend.

BISHOP POTTER'S SUDDEN ILLNESS

By Associated Press.
New York, May 7.—Bishop Henry E. Potter, of the Episcopal diocese of New York, was suddenly taken ill today, but his illness is said tonight not to be of an alarming nature.

The bishop, late in the afternoon, attended an entertainment given by the boys of the choir school of the cathedral of St. John the Divine at the orphan asylum on the cathedral grounds. He was scheduled as the principal speaker. When the time came for him to begin his address it was found that he had gone to sleep in his chair. When he was aroused he recovered himself immediately and began to speak. The bishop had been speaking only a few minutes when he

DOMINICAN REVOLUTION

By Associated Press.
Washington, May 7.—Cable advices received here state that Jimenez, president of the Dominican republic, has signed a declaration of neutrality to the presidency and on his part Horacio Vasquez, the late vice president, has granted an amnesty to the adherents of the late government and assumed the presidential office.

Don Leon Vasquez, in charge of the Dominican republic, has received cable advices from home announcing the success of the revolution. It is probable that he will now become a resident minister here.

CHIEFS OF POLICE IN SESSION

By Associated Press.
Louisville, Ky., May 7.—The ninth annual convention of the association of Chiefs of Police of the United States and Canada was called to order here today by Mayor Granger. About 225 delegates are in attendance. Among the prominent chiefs here are Matthew Kilby of St. Louis, Philip Detsch of Cincinnati, Francis O'Neill of Chicago, J. J. Jones of New Orleans, A. H. Leslie, director of public safety of St. Petersburg, Richard Sylvester of Washington, D. C., and Harvey C. Carr of Grand Rapids.

After the welcoming addresses, Harvey C. Carr, the secretary and treasurer of the association, made his report and President Sylvester read the annual address and report. Committees on resolutions, by-laws and credentials were then appointed.

St. Louis and New Orleans are in the race for the next convention. The chiefs are apparently in the humor of re-electing Mayor Sylvester president and Chief Carr secretary and treasurer. During the meeting the by-laws will be changed in order to make the organization an international association. Congress will be urged to pass the bill providing for the support of the Bertillon system by the government and recommendations will be made as to the members of the board of control. Numerous chiefs have also expressed themselves as favoring a secret code of communication to be used by the members of the association.

In his annual report President Sylvester urged the necessity of the police chiefs taking steps to stamp out anarchy. He said that before this could be done successfully the association

DEATH OF REAR ADMIRAL SAMPSON

By Associated Press.

Washington, May 6.—Rear Admiral William T. Sampson, retired, died at his home in Annapolis, Md., today, at 10:30 a. m.

near this city. Admiral Sampson resided in Annapolis eight years, during four years of which he was superintendent of the naval academy.

The immediate cause of death was a severe cerebral hemorrhage which had been in a semi-conscious state for several days. At the bedside when the admiral breathed his last were Mrs. Sampson, Mrs. S. M. Claverly, the admiral's mother, and Mrs. S. M. Claverly, the admiral's mother. The admiral's two sons, Ralph and Harold Sampson; Dr. Nixon, the attending physician, and nurses and attendants.

Mrs. Sampson has broken down under the severe strain and was quite ill all during the day. But for the critical condition of the admiral she would have been confined to her bed.

The arrangements for the funeral of Admiral Sampson will not be completed until morning. It has been suggested to Mrs. Sampson that the naval academy at Annapolis be the proper place for the last resting place of the admiral. Admiral Sampson preferred Annapolis, but the matter will not be definitely decided until tomorrow. The pall bearers have not yet been selected, but they will include members of the cadets and the crews of the fleet which engaged in the Santiago campaign. Mrs. Sampson suffered a slight accident four days ago while attending to the wants of the admiral and has not yet recovered. She will probably not be able to attend the funeral services.

A number of telegrams and messages of condolence already have been received from members among them one from Secretary Moody.

The death of Admiral Sampson occurring late in the day, there has been no opportunity yet for any action by the navy department for participating in the funeral services. Suitable repre-frinds have represented to her that he should be buried in Arlington cemetery, including a detachment of blue jackets and marines.

THE DEATH OF BRET HARTE

By Associated Press.

London, May 6.—Bret Harte, the author, died here today. He was born at Albany, N. Y., August 25, 1830.

Mr. Harte died suddenly at the Red House, Camberley, near Aldershot, from hemorrhage, caused by an affection of the throat. Mr. Harte had been living quietly in England for years. Most of his time was spent in the country, and when in London he was almost secluded, having few visitors to his erless to manipulate the market against the meat consumer, and that the efforts of the press of the country to stop the consumption of beef for the purpose of handicapping the beef trust is not injuring the trust, if one exists, but will have a serious effect upon the values of live stock in this state and will not only destroy the profits of the farmer and stock raiser, but cause him actual loss.

"If there is a combination among the big packers of the country, we insist that it is to the interest of such a combine to keep the prices dressed beef and cattle as low as possible, for such a combination must naturally depend upon a large volume of trade and the maximum volume of trade can only be rooms at Lanahan's Gate, and only going to the hotel for a limited number of very intimate friends.

Seven months ago, when a false report of his death was circulated in America, a representative of the Associated Press called at his rooms. Mr. Hart, who had recovered from his illness, well. He laughed heartily and quoted Mark Twain's old saying about the report being greatly exaggerated. "Except for a little cold," said Mr. Hart, "I am as good as new."

While I am getting to be a pretty old man (pointing to his snow white hair) there is life in the old dog yet," and then he took a cigar so large that it would have done credit to any of his Poker Flat friends. He was hoping, he said, to do more work, but he confessed he was growing lazy.

After a little suffering from swollen tonsils since December last, but he did not consider the attack to be serious. A week ago he went to visit friends at Camberley, and was present at a party, at which, as he said, he suddenly became ill. In the afternoon, went prices on the dressed products are low.

"Owing to the failure of the corn crop last year and high prices that have prevailed for feed, it has cost more than usual to produce beef cattle. The people are so consumptive and we have been able to secure prices that have given us a profit for our cattle, but with the consumptive demand reduced and the packers are able to make their profit on the high price of their material reduction in the prices that have prevailed we must either hold our cattle or sell at an actual loss.

"The stockmen and farmers of this state form a large part of the population.

"When we are prosperous, all the people are prosperous, and if we are able to secure fair prices for our cattle, the people are able to pay the additional price demanded for meat. We believe that the press and the public has not understood this proposition and we make this statement simply in the interest of the people and the best interests of the state.

The afternoon papers make very sympathetic comment on the death of Bret Harte.

"His work," says the Pall Mall Gazette, "was the common property of Anglo-Saxons on both sides of the Atlantic."

The Westminster Gazette remarks: "The world has lost one of the most beloved of its writers."

LEGISLATION FOR WESTERN PEOPLE

Washington, D. C. May 6.—Senator Patterson's bill increasing the pension on Stanley M. Casper, Denver, to $24, passed the senate today.

Representative Shafrath has introduced a bill to punish the owners of the United States from destruction and imposing a fine of $100 on any one melting, mutilating or destroying such coins.

"If there is any class of people damaged by alleged beef trust, that class is the stock raiser. We admit that the packer, to a large extent, controls the market, but the cattle are plentiful he is able to force prices down temporarily while the prices on dressed meats remain undisturbed. During the past few months, owing to conditions that have prevailed in relation to the supply of beef cattle, the packers have been compelled to pay our prices in order to get a supply for his trade.

"By reducing the consumptive demand, the public has once more put it within the power of the packer to limit the prices he will pay for our cattle.

We insist that the prices on dressed beef should be kept at a high level. Nothing considered, and any reduction must come from the pockets of the cattlemen and farmer rather than from the pockets of the trust, we suggest that the struggle between the stock packers' combine be postponed to a time when cattle are plentiful, when the cattlemen and farmers will join here-the gold bars, and the gold bars, who use gold for manufacturing purposes, is alarmingly on the increase," said Mr. Shatroff, "and I introduced this bill with a view to putting a stop to this pernicious practice. Melting coins takes just so much money from the channels of trade. Manufacturing jewelers could use gold bars instead of coins and believe the passage of my bill will not only bring up the practice of jewelers melting coins and thus causing contraction of the currency of the country."

Sen. Turner, Washington, has introduced a bill reorganizing the judicial circuits of the United States under which Colorado, Wyoming, Nebraska and Kansas constitute the thirteenth circuit with terms of court to be held at Omaha.

WRECKED IN ARIZONA

By Associated Press.

Flagstaff, Ariz., May 6.—The passenger train wrecked here today, killing 11 and wounding 25, was the first of its kind in the United States.

The train, which was wrecked here today, was the first of its kind in the United States.

this afternoon two miles west of Flagstaff by running into a burning bridge. None of the passengers or trainmen were seriously injured. One of the dining car waiters has a leg broken and two passengers were slightly hurt. The train was signaled by a trackman, but the train was on a short curve and the bridge too close to stop in time. The composite dining and two Pullman cars were destroyed by fire.

A PROTEST FROM THE CATTLE GROWERS.

Special to the Gazette.

Denver, May 4.—A large attendance was present at the annual meeting of the Montrose Cattle & Horse Growers association, which convened at Montrose yesterday. This association is one of the largest of its kind in the state. The principle feature of the meeting was a statement which was indorsed and issued to the public which states that the so-called beef trust is not responsible for the present state of beef. The statement is as follows:

"The Montrose Cattle & Horse Growers association, composed of range cattlemen and stock farmers located on the western slope, desiring to call the attention of the public to the fact that the so-called 'beef trust' is not responsible for the prevailing high prices of beef and we insist that the high prices are due to perfectly natural conditions and such profit as results comes to the stockmen and farmers of the country, instead of the beef trust, as generally supposed. While we neither affirm or deny the existence of a combination of the big packers for the purpose of controlling the markets on beef, both alive and dressed, we do insist that at the

THE Alexanders of geography and exploration are lauding the fact that Africa, the only continent remaining to them, now presents little to be investigated. The headwaters of the Nile and the Kongo have been surveyed, the equatorial lakes have been circumnavigated and the Mountains of the Moon have been explored. Less than fifty years have passed since Dr. Livingstone made his wonderful journey into Africa beyond the Zambesi river, but today it is crossed by telegraph lines, and a well equipped railway is already uncoiling its steel tentacles toward its southern bank.

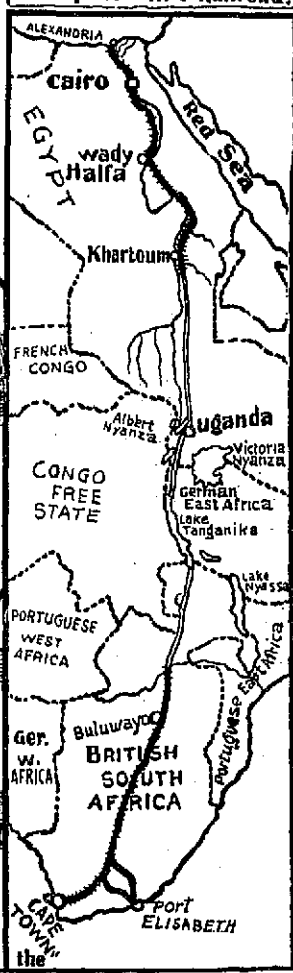

Fifty years ago the only real possession of England in Africa was at the extreme southern end of the continent; at present the British empire claims away over a strip of territory extending from Cape Colony to the Sudan and through Egypt. And it is mainly due to the indomitable energy and foresight of one man, the late Cecil Rhodes, that Great Britain's holdings in South and central Africa have been so enormously increased within the past few years. Africa was practically partitioned among the powers at the Berlin international conference of 1884, and the scramble for territory began the very next year. Exploration and apportionment went on at a rapid rate of progress until today there remains mighty little of African territory that has not been appropriated. The first explorers of the dark continent after the Spanish had a hold on Algeria dating from a period some twenty years back, but she wanted more and so annexed Sahara and Nigeria; Belgium's present king fathered the Kongo Free State project; Germany took territory on the east coast and on the west; but Great Britain came out ahead of them all.

When the smoke cleared away, it was found that John Bull had grabbed not only the largest portions, but the richest. To quote the language of an eminent Briton: "All Africa that is comfortably habitable by white men is under the British flag or under British protection. And, again, everything that pays dividends lies within the same sphere of influence. All of Africa that is habitable and all of Africa that pays its way—that is British Africa."

Present Condition of the Cape to Cairo Railroad

In South Africa was the late Cecil John Rhodes, who to the day of his death considered his greatest achievement the keeping of Bechuanaland in British hands, to the exclusion of the Boers. Rhodes' schemes in South Africa were too vast and too recent to require description here, but in this connection may be mentioned his initial steps that finally led to the elaboration of that gigantic conception, a continuous railway system extending over more than 65 degrees of latitude throughout the length of Africa.

It was Rhodes who in 1890 organized the British South Africa company to secure the vast territory lying to the north of the Transvaal and Bechuanaland, which he foresaw would be either trekked into by the Boers in the near future or seized by the Germans, whose east African colony is contiguous. His ambition even then was "to paint the African map British red" all the way to and beyond the Zambesi, and as the imperial government refused to underpeans and native troops Rhodes refused them all. Lobengula hurried 12,000 of his best fighters against the British "laager" containing less than 2,000 all told, and they were dashed to pieces, with a loss to the British of less than 100 men.

Rhodes captured Lobengula's capital, Bulawayo, and awoke one morning to find that he held also Matabeleland in his grasp. The result of Rhodes' energy and dash was the acquisition of the region now known as Rhodesia, northern and southern, all of 750,000 square miles in area. That conquest was virtually achieved in 1893, and in the month of November, 1897, the former capital of barbaric Lobengula was reached by the railroad running northward from Cape Town, forming the first link in the long chain that is destined to connect the southern tip of Africa with the land of the Pharaohs.

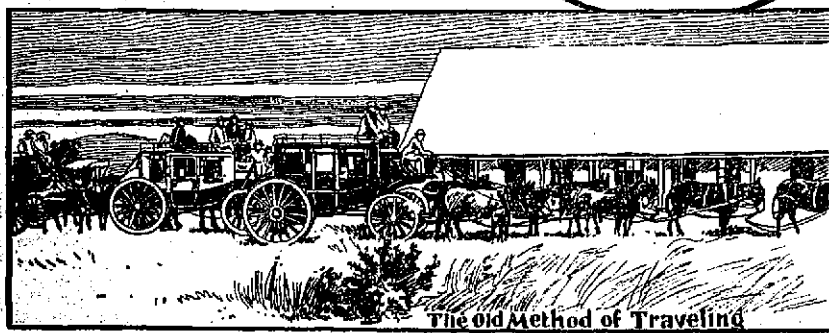

Bulawayo is 1,380 miles from Cape Town, and the trip is now made in three and one-half days by railway trains with every modern equipment. Thus the work begun by Livingstone nearly fifty years ago was completed by the diamond king of South Africa acting on his own initiative and with scant aid from the imperial government. Rhodes is credited with saying, "You can't run a fort on coffee planting (meaning that an agricultural colony will not support troops), but gold or diamonds can do it." And he proved it, for the land he took for the British is extremely rich in gold and has not only supported British troops and government, but has furnished the sinews of war for the scheme that, next to territorial conquest, lay nearest to Rhodes' heart—the Cape to Cairo railway.

Of the 5,000 miles necessary to make the desired connection between Cape Town and Cairo more than one-half have been covered already. Work is being vigorously pushed northward from Bulawayo to the Zambesi, whence it will be continued to Lake Tanganyika, throughout the length of which steamers will run to connect with the line projected, still northwardly toward the White Nile. Southward from Alexandria and Cairo a railroad now exists as far as Khartoum, that city in which Gordon met his untimely death. The gap at present between the two termini is not much over 2,000 miles. The richest country in the world lies along the railroad as built and projected. It abounds in gold and diamonds, in palm products and rubber, copper, iron, coal—in fact, all kinds of valuable mineral and agricultural resources.

These words were written before the Boer war, and how applicable they are to the status of British holdings in Africa today no one needs to be told. Neither is it necessary to more than mention that the man who more than any other made history, and recent history, take its subjugation he made it himself and then turned it over to the crown. He accomplished the conquest of Matabeleland and Matabeleland at an initial expense of less than a million dollars, and when Lobengula brought his "impis" against his handful of Euro-

and Portuguese navigators had shown the way thither were the slave stealers and traders, followed by the missionaries, and these, in turn, by commercial men, settlers and colonizers. "In the eighteenth century," some one has said, "the civilized world [rather civilized Europe] was engaged in stealing Africans from Africa, while in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries it has been stealing Africa from Africans."

Spain and Portugal had owned territory in Africa for centuries. From its north coast Spain was invaded by Mohammedans in the eighth century, following after the armies of Hamular and Hannibal in an early period of its civilization, yet until near the latter half of the nineteenth century Africa remained a land of mystery and darkness. After the scramble was under way, however, the great powers lost no time in acquiring as much of Africa as greed and policy could control. France

CHAMBER OF REPRESENTATIVES, BRUSSELS, BELGIUM.

Among the public buildings of Belgium's capital, a city celebrated for the number and architectural beauty of its ancient palaces, the one most conspicuous in the public eye is the present time undoubtedly is that shown in the illustration, the chamber of representatives, where the recent revision of the Belgian constitution in favor of a more popular suffrage was rejected. The riotings that preceded this action, as well as those that occurred subsequently, are events well known. Great excitement followed the announcement of the rejected revision, the socialists being especially active, though their leaders counseled moderation and an appeal to the king.

SMALLEST CHURCH IN THE WORLD.

The smallest stone church in the world is claimed by the village of Uptham, in Yorkshire, England. It is also particularly picturesque, with its ivy covered, half ruined tower. Its actual dimensions are 17 feet 9 inches by 13 feet 1 inch, and it is 900 years old. A quaint inscription in the steeple reads, "William Crow, churchwarden, builded steeple, 1684." Some of the stones in the adjacent churchyard date back to 1550.

A single brewery in Munich uses 118 railway freight cars of its own, besides 28 belonging to the state. Other breweries have 143, 90, 52, 80, 100, 86, etc.

MARY JOHNSTON, AUTHOR OF THREE FAMOUS BOOKS.

As to the personality of Miss Mary Johnston, the talented author of three famous books—"Prisoners of Hope" (1898), "To Have and to Hold" (1900) and "Audrey" (1901)—which have already sold into the hundreds of thousands, it is all that the most exacting hero, or, rather, heroine, lover could desire. Born of a fine old colonial family in Buchanan, Botetourt county, Va., Nov. 21, 1870, she has gained her laurels early. Like many another author who has won the world's applause, Miss Johnston is a product of home education and, owing to continued ill health, never was for any length of time at school or seminary. Instead she browsed in her father's library and there acquired a liking for poetry and history, particularly for Shakespeare and the narratives of old colonial times. Her summers she spent on the seashore or in the country, and thus her work is altogether the outgrowth of environment, shaped by circumstances. An omnivorous reader, Miss Johnston readily assimilated the best of what she read without dissipating time in acquiring material that would never be of use to the novelist. In short, her mental digestion was perfect, and she became great by the intellectual pabulum she absorbed. She is of medium height, slender, yet stately, with a high bred face, large brown eyes and wavy brown hair. Her home is at Birmingham, Ala., and for years she has been her father's housekeeper and traveling companion.

PROFESSOR DAVID JAYNE HILL, WHO HAS BEEN SUGGESTED AS THE EMBASSADOR TO GERMANY.

A name prominently mentioned in connection with the German embassy, contingent upon the retirement of Ambassador White, is that of Professor David Jayne Hill, the eminent first assistant secretary of state. It is now nearly three years and a half since Professor Hill was appointed by President McKinley to the position he now holds as Secretary of State Jay's "right hand man." That he has filled it with satisfaction to diplomats both in this country and abroad is admitted.

At the time he received his present appointment Professor Hill was in Europe, whither he had gone for the purpose of studying international law.

Born at Plainfield, N. J., June 10, 1850, he graduated from Bucknell university, Pennsylvania, in 1874, studied in Paris and Berlin, became president of his alma mater in 1879 and of Rochester university in 1888, resigning in order to visit Europe. It is said that Professor Hill is one of the world's greatest experts in international jurisprudence, on which subject he not only lectured for several years prior to taking governmental office, but has written much. As an author he began to write twenty-five years ago, producing a "Life of Washington Irving" in 1877, following it by a "Life of W. C. Bryant," "Elements and Science of Rhetoric," "Elements of Psychology," "Principles and Fallacies of Socialism," "Genetic Philosophy," "International Justice," "A Primer of Finance" and many political pamphlets.

As a diplomatist of extensive acquirements, a linguist and a political economist Professor Hill has acceptably filled the place he holds by the display of talents which constitute a guarantee of still greater performances whenever qualities of the first order shall be in demand.

That Professor Hill possesses social qualities also was evidenced during the tour of Prince Henry of Prussia in this country, when he accompanied him as the official representative of our government. His home in Washington, presided over by his talented wife, is a rallying place for diplomats, scientists, artists and local literati.

TOMB OF A NIGERIAN CHIEF.

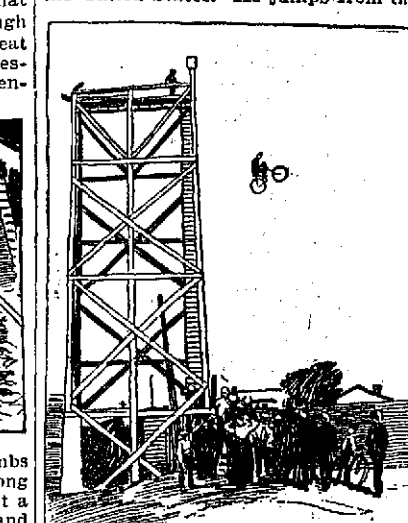

The British punitive expedition into southeastern Nigeria which completely broke the power of the Aro negroes and subjugated several other native tribes unearthed many strange things in that far-off corner of the globe. Although the Aros are cannibals, they have great respect for their rulers and their ancestors, and the most common objects encountered seem to have been the tombs of the latter. When a chief man among the Aros expires, his tribesmen erect a large hut with high, thatched sides and back, which is covered in front with gaily colored cloth. Inside this hut is the grave, and outside is placed an idol as well as the effigies of inferior deities, while the front of the building is adorned with earthen pots, gin bottles and painted sticks.

A WONDERFUL ONE LEGGED CYCLIST.

One of the wonders of the bicycle world at present is the original of this illustration, who is now exhibiting in the United States. He jumps from the roof of a building into a water tank below, a distance of ninety feet, without turning over in midair and without breaking any bones or bicycles. The most wonderful thing about it is that the man has but one leg.

WHAT THE FRENCH "RESCUE DOGS" DID TO A DUMMY.

The French police were very enthusiastic a short time ago over their Newfoundland "rescue dogs" and prated much of what they would do in saving that after one had fallen into the Seine. It is generally supposed desire to be rescued. But no matter. Fortunately Johnny Crapaud's police bethought themselves to try their canine rescuers on a dummy, with the result shown in the illustration. The dogs dashed in all right, seized the dummy, generally by the ear or nose, and pulled it out; but after they had got it ashore they felt to begin to tear it in fragments. Now the Parisian circumstances, but are afraid to make the experiment.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

The British house of lords has rejected the bill to permit the construction of an electric line between London and Brighton. As early as 1812 the French began to advertise in a paper called The Petites Affiches, and ten years later the first bona fide attempt at printing a newspaper was made in London. Among the very earliest mercantile advertisements to appear in England was one advertising the sale of tea. It appeared in the Mercury of 1664. The extension of railways into the Scotch highlands is gravely declared to have been the cause of the depopulation of the district. The famous Lowther arcade, in the Strand, London's great toy market, is to be abandoned to make room for a new bank building. The old chapel of ease at Tunbridge Wells, England, stands partly in Kent and partly in Sussex; but, more than that, it also stands in three parishes. When the clergyman leaves the vestry, he comes out of the parish of Frant, in Essex, and if he is going to officiate at the altar he walks into the parish of Tunbridge, in Kent. If, on the other hand, he is going to preach the sermon, he walks from Frant into the parish of Speldhurst. The largest egg is that of the ostrich. It weighs three pounds and is considered equal in amount to twenty-four hens' eggs. The library of congress ranks sixth among the libraries of the world, in its present contents. France has the largest, England next, then comes Russia, and Germany follows with her libraries in Munich, Berlin and Strasbourg, the last named holding almost equal rank with ours in Washington. It is no unusual thing for a vessel plying between Japan and London to carry 1,000,000 fans of all kinds as a single item of its cargo. Some of the oldest trees in the world are to be found in Great Britain. The tree called William the Conqueror's oak in Windsor park is supposed to be 1,200 years old. The famous Bentley and tries older. Glasgow is to have a military review, to dine 12,000 and entertain 100,000 on the coronation day. The Russian photographers have a strange way of punishing those who, having received their photo, do not pay their bills. They hang the pictures of the delinquents, upside down at the entrance to their studios. In a recent duel between shore artillery and floating guns at Gibraltar the result was decidedly in favor of the coast batteries. The British navy has decided to build a new class of warships, a little stronger than the destroyer type, to be used for scouting purposes.

THE NEWS OF THE WEEK IN COLORADO SPRINGS

IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL

OF LATE MRS. A. S. HOLBROOK

A large number of the sorrowing friends of the late Mrs. A. S. Holbrook gathered in the First Presbyterian church yesterday afternoon to pay their last and tribute to the memory of the departed.

Mrs. Holbrook died in California some months ago, but the health of Mr. Holbrook would not permit of his returning to the body at that time. The sad-hearted husband arrived here yesterday morning with the remains, and at 2:30 yesterday afternoon the funeral was held.

The large auditorium of the church was filled with the hush for the service, and on theasket for the woman whose death has caused many sad hearts in every section of the city.

The service was conducted by the Rev. W. H. Boyer, D. D. Root and Dr. T. C. Kirkwood. The members of the local post of the G. A. R., and the members of the local circle Ladies of the G. A. R., attended the service in a body. Mrs. Holbrook was one of the beloved members of the Ladies of the G. A. R., and Mr. Holbrook was an honored veteran of the Grand Army of the Republic.

The services at the church and at the grave were beautiful and impressive. The words of the clergymen were forceful as they spoke of the beautiful life of the life which had passed out of this world of sin and strife and into the world of peace and rest. The Presbyterian church choir rendered several sweet selections during the services.

At the conclusion of the service at the church the coffin was carried to the grave by six pallbearers, representing the G. A. R. and the Presbyterian church. L. E. Sherman, D. W. Johnson and Olin Remick performed the duties for the G. A. R., and Senator J. H. Seldomridge, Dr. T. C. Kirkwood and John Lennox represented the church. The hearse was followed by a long line of carriages containing the friends of the deceased, and the body was consigned to its last resting place in Evergreen cemetery in the presence of as large an assemblage as has attended a funeral in this city for some time.

SOME GOOD ADVERTISING

FOR COLORADO SPRINGS

The Municipal Board of Colorado Springs has printed an interesting and creditable article relative to the good work of this city by the El Paso County Horticultural society. The article is a commendation of the horticultural work of General Palmer with this organization. The article follows:

A gift to Colorado Springs.

The Horticultural society of El Paso county, Colorado, has been having a very interesting and creditable article printed in the Municipal Board of Colorado Springs, where the meeting was held, that it was the most important one in the history of the organization, but that the reason for its publication was largely attended by members of the organization and by others who are interested in city improvement. Reports of the year's work were read and were most interesting, and then there was submitted a communication from Gen. W. J. Palmer.

General Palmer stated that he and the other owners of a certain tract of land in the north end of the city, the El Paso tract, had decided to donate the area to the city for the establishment of a horticultural garden, to be as free to the public as is the Antlers park on the south end of the city. The contemplated park in the valley north of the city. In fact, he said, it was the desire of the donors that the garden should be a place of park connection, and thus, as a direct improvement, should be something more than a mere society possession. The conditions were only that the land be fenced, graded, and planted in the present spring, and that the society build during the year 1902 "an attractive building for the use of a library and meeting room" and that the society maintain the ground and attachments in a satisfactory manner. And the making of these conditions was a little more than a matter of form, for the society had already been formed by Mr. E. W. Gooding, and had expressed to the society their readiness, should suitable land be secured for a garden and garden, to give the money that would be necessary to improve it and erect the needed buildings. The meeting was a joyous one and that persons here in Colorado Springs consider it to have been of great importance. In a letter to the Municipal Board, Mr. E. W. Gooding, secretary of the society, gives a further evidence of the public's appreciation of the civic interest of the gift in the statement that the society has just granted $250 to the society for the purchase of grounds and the preparation of plans for the improvement. He adds: "This should be an encouragement to the horticultural associations." It ought to be said, however, that the El Paso County Horticultural society is the only horticultural society in the state of Colorado. It has an account here in January—has limited itself to horticulture only, but has wisely, and with much persistence, shown its interest in all city improvement effort. Hence this gift.

CUT RATE TICKETS

BEYOND THE WORLD

A trip around the world with all its attending novelties and wonders will be enjoyed on May 13, the parties starting at 5 o'clock and every 15 minutes thereafter until 10 o'clock. Fifty cents will be the round trip charge.

There will be a large tent in the north park which will serve as headquarters and it will be elaborately decorated with the flags of all the different countries.

Carriages will be in attendance to carry the travelers to their different destinations, at each of which they will stop 15 minutes for refreshments.

The first country visited will be Japan, which will be under the direction of representatives of the Christian and Lutheran churches, and at the same time a tent will be found decorated in true Japanese style, and the weary traveler will be regaled with the fragrant beverage of the Orient.

Mexico will be visited next and the visitor will be surprised to see C. E. S. from the First and Second Presbyterian churches, with Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Seldomridge as host and hostess. A genuine bull fight will be in progress at this point.

At India, the next stopping point, Dr. and Mrs. Allen with a committee from the First M. E. and United Presbyterian churches will show the visitor the famous white elephant and various other novelties, and at Ireland, the next stop, General L. E. Sherman with the assistance of some First Baptist and Methodist Presbyterian young folks will show the travelers how to kiss the Blarney stone. The travelers will next be introduced into the jungles of Africa and participate in a tiger hunt with Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Tucker and First and Second Congregational young people.

Great preparations are being made to give the travelers a royal good time. The affair is in charge of the City Anna M. Tweed, president of the City E. union, and a committee of representatives from each of the societies. The committee includes Misses Jessie Allen, Bannochie, Kennedy, Mr. H. R. Chapman, Mrs. Pinkerton, Mr. George Perry, Mr. Scribner and Mr. Fairchild.

MAJ. WM. WAGNER DEAD

Major William Wagner, the first mayor of Colorado Springs, died at his home in Short Hills, Essex county, New Jersey, yesterday morning, at the age of 61. The death was received by Henry A. Wagner of the El Paso bank, who is a brother of the deceased and who came to this city about 1870. H. A. Wagner is also the treasurer of the Pike's Peak club and he has the kindly sympathy not only of his business associates, but of his clubmates in his bereavement.

Another telegram was received by Capt. A. D. Watson of the Antlers staff giving the sad news that his old friend and comrade, Major Wagner, had gone to his long home, after an illness of several years.

William Wagner was born in Philadelphia, October 28, 1838, and spent his early boyhood in the Quaker city. He first came into prominence in the civil war, hastening into the military service of his country at the first call of Lincoln for troops. Enlisting in the Washington Grays, he left Philadelphia in the early days of '61 and served for three months under General Patterson, after which he returned to Philadelphia and entered upon a long term of enlistment in the Fifteenth Pennsylvania cavalry, under General (then Colonel) William J. Palmer, under whom he rose to be one of the three majors of the regiment, the others being Henry McAllister, who has been identified with every step in the history of Colorado Springs from its earliest beginning, and Adam Kramer.

He attained great prominence by being elected by General Palmer to lead 50 or 60 men in a hazardous expedition against Lynchburg, Va., in order to draw the attention of the confederates to that point, while Palmer, in command of the main expedition, attacked and captured Salisbury. At Chattanooga he was captured and after a period of confinement in Libby prison was exchanged and returned to his duties in his old regiment.

After peace had again settled upon the land, Major Wagner came west to Colorado with General Palmer, and after spending a short time in Denver, came to Colorado Springs. Then General Palmer built the Denver and Rio Grande railroad, and Wagner was with it from its inception, being appointed auditor, the road's offices being on Second street, just below Huerfano. In 1878 he came to New York as secretary and assistant treasurer of the Colorado Springs company, which position he held until four years ago when, stricken with paralysis, he removed with his family to Short Hills, N. J., where he remained until his death.

On the 18th of March, 1878, by a vote of the trustees of the town of Colorado Springs, it was decided to incorporate as a city, and the choice of the citizens was General Palmer. General Palmer, who had always worked enthusiastically for the upbuilding of the town, and so successful was his first administration of his high office that he was re-elected in the following spring. Major Wagner was prominent in the work of the Colorado Springs company and was a charter member of the El Paso club.

Ignited, unassuming, a polished gentleman of the old school, he was warm and lifelike friendships during the years when he was in this city, and the heartiest sympathies not only of those friends, but of his sorrowing countrymen, were for him. He was a true friend, a good husband and father, as well as a true Christian and polished gentleman of the old school. Alas! How these noble souls drop like leaves about us.

But yesterday it was McAllister, Hancock, Sheridan, Meade, Grant, Custer, Crook, Farragut, Cushing, Bourke, Kramer, Wright and other noble soldiers. Today death has taken from us "Billy Wagner." Oh, day of sorrow to my soul. Yesterday our comrade looked with loving eyes into ours, deeming us all loving, kind and true. Today thy hand has traced upon the many face of our comrade an awful jest, and the words which he was to meet, "not dead, but gone before," and only the proud name of "veteran" will remain on the page of history as an object lesson to teach patriotism and love of country to those who come after us.

So these veterans pass away. Soon all those who defended the flag in the past will have gone to meet their "not dead, but gone before," and only the proud name of "veteran" will remain on the page of history as an object lesson to teach patriotism and love of country to those who come after us.

There are few circumstances in life so painful as the death of a beloved friend or one in our immediate family circle. Capt. Edwin M. Watson.

BICYCLE ACCIDENT IN GARDEN OF THE GODS.

The Garden of the Gods was the scene of a bicycle accident yesterday afternoon which resulted in the painful injury of Mrs. Emma B. Forbes of 739 East Kiowa street.

Mrs. Forbes was returning from a ride on her wheel through the Garden of the Gods, and was on the trail of the hills when she lost control of the bicycle and was thrown off onto the stony ground. She struck with such force that she lost consciousness, which was not regained for some time.

Fred A. Lester, a young gentleman of Chicago, who is stopping at the Antlers, and who happened to be driving through the Garden, came across the unconscious woman, and at once gave her his attention. She was brought to her home in this city and a physician was called. Mrs. Forbes was badly cut about the face and head and terribly shaken up. It is not known whether or not she was internally injured, but at 10 o'clock she was reported to be resting easily.

SHE HAD TO WITNESS

FRESHMAN-SOPH GAME

There were doings at the college one day during the past week in which almost everybody connected with the institution was interested, from the grave and revered senior and the gay junior to the sophomore suffering with nervous complaints, and the grass-hunter freshman from the youths and maidens of Cutler academy to the lads and lassies of the Fawcett school who ride burros and ponies and delve in spelling and grammar and penmanship. The great occasion was the game of the freshmen and sophomores on the baseball diamond.

All of them wanted to see the game and all sorts of stratagems were devised in order that they who had lessons which conflicted with their attendance at the contest might witness the sport. Some of the boys' grandmothers died opportunely, some of the girls' relatives were attacked with contagious fever and while they feared they might carry the germs into the school room, the danger did not seem to be as great in the fresh, open air.

One young miss, however, had what Funston would call an "overheated conscience," and in her there was no guile. She suffered for several days previous to the game, hoping against hope that some mishap might happen that she might see her beloved hero of the diamond bring in the winning run with a timely swipe at the ball which would send the faithful sphere sailing safely through the circumference at atmosphere. But there was nothing to do. Nothing came of her hoping. The game was played, and it did it could not soothe the savage desire hidden in that heaving breast to see that baseball game.

My Dear Mrs. Faust—I cannot take my lesson this afternoon. I must go to the freshman-sophomore baseball game.

POST 22 G. A. R. WILL CARE FOR SOLDIERS' GRAVES.

There are about 120 old soldiers buried in Evergreen cemetery. A very large number of these were buried upon land owned by the Grand Army. Nearly all of them were strangers who have no friends to look after and care for their graves. If these graves are kept clean and are cared for in such a manner as should be done in harmony with the beautiful graves of our countrymen at large, it must be done by those who are interested in having the cemetery beautiful upon general principles, and those who want to see the graves of the old soldiers neatly kept because of their service to our country.

A committee of Post 22 G. A. R., of which Hon. D. W. Robbins is chairman, has undertaken to improve the cemetery lots by grading and seeding, planting trees, etc., at an estimated expense of $500. Contributions are solicited from all citizens who are willing to help in this most laudable enterprise.

Donations of team work for hauling soil and labor, trees and shrubbery, or money, will be gratefully acknowledged by the committee. Any who are willing to work or furnish team work are asked to report by postal card or otherwise to D. W. Robbins, 222 S. Weber street. It is proposed to commence work at the cemetery Wednesday morning, May 7. Contributions of money may be made to any member of the committee.

NOONDAY BURGLARY

IN COLORADO CITY.

A daring noon-day burglary was perpetrated in Colorado City yesterday. The thieves securing about $500. The stolen property was taken from the Milners' Exchange saloon, at 606 Colorado avenue.

STREPHENS ELECTED

SCHOOL DIRECTOR

Edwin W. Stephens was the successful candidate for election to membership on the school board yesterday. He secured 111 votes, while the runner-up, Mr. Stephens, whose term has expired, Mr. Stephens had the substantial majority of 583 votes.

Some remarkable figures are presented by the election results. The two candidates, Mr. Stephens and Rev. Benjamin Brewster. The vote which was polled was the largest ever cast at any school election yet held in Colorado. It was the total for the four polling places held at the year's vote broke the previous record of 2,473 votes, there being a great deal of interest taken in the election. In 1900 there were also some excitement and Mr. Stephens was elected by a vote of 1,000 to 250. Friends of the candidates were at work yesterday, however, from the start to the finish and the result was that an exceedingly large number of people exercised the franchise.

Last year there were about 600 votes cast at the High school and at the Lowell and Washington schools combined. While over 600 as against the Lowell and Washington schools was within 100 of that cast at the High and Steele schools combined, there having been two north end polling places this year.

The figures seemingly show a falling off in the vote of those accustomed to deposit their ballots at the High school, but in reality the district north of Pike's Peak avenue increased its vote over last year by about 100, this being shown by the fact that a new polling place was established at the Steele school in order to relieve the pressure at the High school. The combined vote at these two schools foots up over 600 as against about 1,500 at the High school in 1901.

Another remarkable circumstance was the increase in the vote at the Lowell school which rose from 724 last year to 1,000 this year. It was in the south end district that Mr. Stephens polled a larger part of his majority, although the figures show that he would have won without it, as Mr. Brewster succeeded in carrying only the Steele school district, and his majority of 222 there was counter-balanced by Mr. Stephens' majority on the west side of 165 and 13 at the High school.

The following table shows the vote for each candidate at each polling place with the grand total.

| Wash. | Low. |
|-------------|------|
| Stephens | 257 |
| Brewster | 121 |
| Grand Total | 378 |

Stephens' majority at Washington school, 155. High school, 97. Lowell school, 51. Total, 303.

Brewster's majority at Steele school, 172.

The winning candidate is about 46 years of age. He has had good business training, having been cashier of the

About 12:30 the proprietors, Mullen & Daugherty, left their saloon and went to dinner, everything at that time being all right. Upon their return about a quarter past 1 o'clock, however, they discovered that the cash drawer had been opened and about $50, mostly in silver, had been taken. It was then discovered that the real work of the store had been broken and entrance effected to the building from the alley.

No one was found yesterday who remembered seeing anyone in that vicinity about the time the deed was done, and the burglar left no trace save the broken window. One clue is being followed up by the police, and that is that the work was evidently done by someone who was perfectly familiar with the premises as well as the business of the proprietors. Several suspects are under close surveillance and an arrest is expected to follow today.

SIERRA MADRE STREET

TO BE OPENED UP

The city is negotiating with the D. & R. G. and Short Line railroads relative to opening Sierra Madre street at the intersection of the street with the rights of way of these railroads, for the benefit of the residents of the city living south of the tracks and west of Sierra Madre street.

The Rio Grande has already notified the city council that it is willing to put in a crossing where it is requested and that the street can be made available for use at that point. The Short Line management has been asked to do in like manner and it is believed that no difficulty will be encountered here.

When these crossings are in there will be another thoroughfare opened for the benefit of those people, who have for a long time been practically shut out from the rest of the city.

RODE FROM DENVER

IN A "GASMOBILE."

Mr. Potter, a Denver resident, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon in a "gasmobile," a $2,600 "gasmobile," in which he rode south from the capital city.

He will spend two or three days in Colorado Springs and will exhibit the machine, which is one of the finest in the world. It is built on the French plan. The gasoline tanks are in front, and in front of them are the coolers, with the water tank just over the gasoline tanks. The engine is a three-cylinder affair, and is just back of the driver's seat. The steering wheel is the French pattern. The machine is much larger than the ordinary automobile and is built with a view to durability, as well as speed. The steering wheel is in front of the driver's seat, while there are no gears, just within reach of the driver's left hand. The steering wheel is after the French pattern. The machine will doubtless attract much attention as it is driven about the city. It will be housed at Strang's automobile shop while here, and underwent a course of cleaning at the shop last night.

RUNAWAY FREIGHT

CONSUMED BY FIRE.

A runaway train on the Colorado Midland Saturday night was entirely consumed after a wild rush through the night for a distance of 22 miles. The train, which was carrying a freight load, left Arkansas Junction at 8:30 Saturday night and a few miles out stopped for repairs to the engine, which was uncoupled. The train then started on its way, but the engine or the air brake and the 13 cars and one engine started to run. An attempt was made to check them but they gained headway and ran at tremendous speed around curves and down the steep grades to the west, about eight miles west of Buena Vista, where they were ditched. Fire immediately started, presumably from the store in the caboose, and the entire train of five engines and 13 cars and one engine was burned to ashes before anyone could reach the scene. Wrecking trains were immediately dispatched from Colorado City and Leadville and it was up the week and repaired the track.

Amos Clevere is the name of the deceased man whom Dr. Richardson found at Wigwam late Tuesday evening. Dr. Richardson went down at the request of the people there, who were afraid of the poor fellow.

It appears that Clevere must have fallen from a D. and R. G. train. He was suffering from concussion of the brain, and was in a most pitiable condition. He called for his wife and children, and at times was so maddened by the pain he was in that he threatened to kill anyone who would touch him. A ticket in Clevere's pocket showed that he was en route to his home in Phillipsburg, Kan. He was taken to the D. and R. G. hospital at Pueblo until his relatives could be notified. The man is about 60 years old, and his age made his condition all the more pitiable.
